5.6. Cookies

The Data Controller is using cookies in the course of operation of the Website. Cookie is a small data file (hereinafter as: cookie) sent by the Data Controller to the data subject's browser program, to be stored on the data subject's device.

The Cookies used on the Website are not suitable to identify the data subjects, these are necessary to ensure the services of the Website. By default, most the browser programs accept cookies, however, the data subject may decide to choose a setting that rejects the cookies and/or signals their receipt. The Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on does not prevent the data being sent to the website itself and other Internet analytics services. The use of cookies allows the Data Controller to retrieve and store individual visitor information and thereby to monitor the use of the Website. The purpose of this is to allow the Data Controller to get information about how many visitors visit the Website, when and in what manner. Through these anonymized data, the Data Controller will be able to optimise the Website in the future to ensure the appropriate user experience. Further information on the use and protection of data is available at the following link: <https://policies.google.com/privacy?hl=hu>.

Purpose of data processing	To examine website-visiting habits, and facilitate the contacting of the Data Controller.

Time limit for data storage	Maximum one year from the date of data collection.
Method of data storage	Electronic.
Source of the data	Data collected from the data subject.
Possible consequences of failure to provide the data	The provision of personal data is not a prerequisite for the conclusion of the contract or the use of the Website.
Who can access the data?	The Data Controller's competent co-workers and the co-workers of its processors (if any). The currently effective list of the processors of the Data Controller is attached to this Data Processing Notice as Annex 1.
Data transfer to third countries or to international organisations	No data are transferred to third countries or to international organisations.

6. Data processors

Data Processors may not make decisions independently, and they shall act in compliance with their contracts concluded with and the instructions received from the Data Controller. Data processors record, manage, and process personal data transmitted to them by the Data Controller in line with the provisions of the GDPR. The Data Processors shall perform data processing actions regarding the personal data provided by the data subjects during the period specified in this Data Processing Notice, adjusted to the individual data processing purposes.

Data Controller shall transfer data to the companies specified in the list of data processors attached to this Data Processing Notice as Annex no. 1, and shall use these companies as data processors.

The processed personal data may be accessed primarily by the Data Controller and the internal staff of the Data Controller; however these data shall not be published or disclosed to any third party other than the data processors or other cooperating third-party service providers. With regard to operating the services and settling accounts, the Data Controller may use a data processor and may cooperate with third-party service providers.

7. Enforcement of the rights of data subjects

The data subjects may request information about the processing of their personal data; they may request the rectification of their personal data; the restriction of processing; erasure of their data directly from the Data Controller through the e-mail address at dataprotection@hupx.hu, and shall have the right to data portability, the right to legal remedy, and to withdraw their consent. Data subjects may file any possible complaints in the territory of Hungary to the Hungarian National Authority for Data Protection and Freedom of Information, or to a court selected at their own discretion. The regional courts shall have jurisdiction in such court proceedings.

The Data Controller shall communicate any rectification or erasure of personal data or restriction of processing, to each recipient to whom the personal data have been disclosed, unless this proves impossible or involves disproportionate effort. The Data Controller shall inform the data subject about those recipients if the data subject requests it.

a) Right to information and access

In accordance with the obligation set out in Article 13 of the GDPR, the Data Controller is required to provide the following information on data processing to the data subject, if the personal data comes from the data subject, at the time of obtaining the personal data:

- a) the identity and the contact details of the controller and its representative;
- b) the contact details of the data protection officer, where applicable;
- c) the purpose of the processing for which the personal data are intended as well as the legal basis for the processing;
- d) the recipients or categories of recipients of the personal data, if any;
- e) the period for which the personal data will be stored, or if that is not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;
- f) information about the existence of the right to request from the data controller access to and rectification or erasure of personal data or restriction of processing concerning the data subject or to object to processing as well as the right to data portability;
- g) where the processing is based on consent, the existence of the right to withdraw consent at any time, without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal;
- h) the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority;
- i) whether the provision of personal data is a statutory or contractual requirement, or a requirement necessary to enter into a contract, as well as whether the data subject is obliged to provide the personal data and of the possible consequences of failure to provide such data.

Where personal data have not been obtained from the data subject, the Data Controller shall provide the data subject with the above information and in addition to them, pursuant to Article 14 of the GDPR, the following information:

- a) the categories of personal data concerned;
- b) the recipients or categories of recipients of the personal data, if any;
- c) from which source the personal data originate, and if applicable, whether it came from publicly accessible sources.

Where personal data have not been obtained from the data subject, the Data Controller shall provide the information:

- a) within a reasonable period after obtaining the personal data, but at the latest within one month;
- b) if the personal data are to be used for communication with the data subject, at the latest at the time of the first communication to that data subject; or
- c) if a disclosure to another recipient is envisaged, at the latest when the personal data are first disclosed.

The above described information provision obligation is not required to be fulfilled, if:

- the data subject already has the information referred to in these Sections;
- making such information available would be impossible or would involve a disproportionate effort;
- obtaining or disclosure is expressly laid down by Union or currently effective Hungarian law to which the Data Controller is subject and which also provides appropriate measures to protect the data subject's legitimate interests; or
- where the personal data must remain confidential subject to an obligation of professional secrecy regulated by Union or currently effective Hungarian law.

The right of access of the data subject shall, in accordance with Article 15 of the GDPR, cover making the following information available:

- purposes of data processing;
- the categories of personal data concerned;
- the recipients to whom personal data has been or will be disclosed;
- the envisaged period for which the personal data will be stored;
- the rights of the data subject with regard to the processing of personal data;
- the source of the data, if not collected from the data subject;
- information about automated decision-making.

In all cases, the Data Controller shall endeavour to ensure that the information it provides to the data subject is, in all cases, concise, transparent, understandable, easily accessible, clear and comprehensible, subject to compliance with the GDPR rules. It shall be the Data Controller's liability to perform the information provision and carry out the measure. The Data Controller shall provide all information to the data subject in writing, including by electronic means.

With regard to the data security rules set out in Article 15 and Article 32 of the GDPR, the Data Controller shall provide information to the data subject only and exclusively if the Data Controller verified the identity of the data subject.

If the identity is not verified, the Data Controller shall reject the request for exercising the relevant right and inform the data subject about the manner of exercising his rights.

The Data Controller shall inform the data subject within one month of the receipt of the request, provided that the request related to the data subject's rights was made in a properly communicated declaration. Taking into account the complexity of the request and the number of requests received, the Data Controller may extend this one month deadline by two further months, within one month following the submission/receipt of the request to the Data Controller, through a notification sent to the data subject, with reasoning attached.

It shall be considered as proper communication or receipt, if the written request is sent by the data subject to and received at the official address of the Data Controller or the email address provided for this purpose.

Any request that has not been communicated in one of the above-mentioned proper ways shall be disregarded by the Data Controller.

Any information and communication relating to the processing of the personal data must be easily accessible and easy to understand, and clear and plain language must be used. This principle concerns, in particular, information to the data subjects on the identity of the controller and the purposes of the processing and further information to ensure fair and transparent processing in respect of the natural persons concerned and their right to obtain confirmation and communication of personal data concerning them which are being processed.

The information and measures stipulated in this Section shall be provided by the Data Controller free of charge, and Data Controller shall charge any expense reimbursement only in the case specified under Article 12(5) of the GDPR.

b) Right to rectification

The data subject shall have the right to obtain from the Data Controller without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning him or her. Taking into account the purposes of the processing, the data subject shall have the right to have incomplete personal data completed, including by means of providing a supplementary statement.

c) Right to erasure ("right to be forgotten")

The data subject shall have the right to obtain from the Data Controller the erasure of personal data concerning him or her without undue delay and the Data Controller shall have the obligation to erase personal data without undue delay where one of the following grounds applies:

- a) the personal data are no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed;
 - b) the data subject withdraws his/her consent underlying the processing and there is no other legal basis for the processing;
 - c) the personal data have been unlawfully processed;
 - d) the personal data have to be erased for compliance with a legal obligation in Union or Member State law to which the data controller is subject;
- OR
- e) the personal data have been collected in relation to the offer of information society services.

The data subject's right to erasure can only be restricted in the case of the following exceptions as per the GDPR, i.e. even if the above reasons exist, the further retention of personal data may be considered lawful,

- a) if it is necessary for exercising the right to freedom of expression and information, or
- b) if it is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation (i.e. a legal obligation in the Data Processing Register for an activity defined by the legal basis for a period appropriate to the purpose of data processing), or
- c) if it is necessary for performance of a task carried out in the public interest, or
- d) if it is necessary for the exercising of an official authority vested in the data controller, or
- e) if it is necessary for the fulfilment of public interest affecting the area of public health,
- f) if it is necessary for archiving in the public interest, or
- g) if it is necessary for scientific or historical research or for statistical purposes, or
- h) if it is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

d) Right to data portability

The data subject shall have the right to receive the personal data concerning him or her, which he or she has provided to the Data Controller, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and have the right to transmit those data to another data controller without hindrance from the data controller to which the personal data have been provided, if:

- the data subject's consent was the legal basis of processing or the processing was necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is party or in order to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract [Article 6(1) or point (b) or Article 9(2)(a) of the GDPR]

AND

- the processing is carried out by automated means.

The right set out in this clause is not held by the data subject if the data processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the Data Controller, and if that right would adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.

If the Data Controller is required to disclose the personal data to a person other than the data subject based on the data subject's right to data portability, the Data Controller shall inform and call upon such third party recipient – within the framework of this Data Processing Notice – that they shall not be allowed to use the personal data disclosed by the Data Controller in terms of the data subject for their own purposes, and may only process these personal data in compliance with the applicable data protection legislation, tied to the specific purpose. The Data Controller shall not undertake any liability for the third party's use of the personal data transferred in the proper manner to the third party at the data subject's request.

e) Right to withdraw the consent

If the data subject's personal data are processed by the Data Controller based on the data subject's consent, the data subject shall have the right to withdraw their processing consent at any time. In connection with this, the Data Controller informs the data subjects that the Data Controller may continue to process the data subject's personal data even after the withdrawal of the data subject's consent for purpose of performance of its legal obligation or enforcement of its legitimate interests, as long as the enforcement of the interest is proportionate to the restriction of the right to protect the personal data.

8. Legal Remedy

The Data Controller shall compensate the damages caused to any party as a result of unlawful processing of the data subject's data or violation of the data security requirements, and shall pay the aggravated damages (compensation for injury to feelings) payable in the event the Data Controller or the data processor hired by it caused personality right infringements. The data controller shall be exempt from the liability for the damages caused and from the obligation to pay the aggravated damages if it proves that it is not in any way responsible for the event giving rise to the damage.

The data subject shall be entitled to turn directly to the Data Controller for remedy regarding any violation caused to them or in relation to any complaint, at the following e-mail: dataprotection@hupx.hu

Should the data subject have any complaints regarding the data processing carried out by the Data Controller, the data subject may file a complaint to the Hungarian National Authority for Data Protection and Freedom of Information (address: 1055 Budapest, Falk Miksa utca 9-11., mailing address: 1363 Budapest, Pf.: 9.; phone number: +36 (1) 391-1400; e-mail: ugyfelszolgalat@naih.hu, website: www.naih.hu).

The data subject may refer their case to court in order to protect their data, and the court will address their case in an accelerated procedure. In such an event, the data subjects may decide whether they file their legal action to the regional court having competence according to their domicile (permanent address) or according to their habitual residence (temporary address)(<http://birosag.hu/torvenyszekek>). They can look up the regional court having competence according to their domicile or habitual residence on the website at <http://birosag.hu/ugyfelkapcsolati-portal/birosag-kereso>.

9. Miscellaneous provisions, entry into force

This Data Processing Notice shall enter into force on 1st July 2023 and shall be in effect until revoked.

Data Controller reserves its right to amend this Data Processing Notice. If the amendment affects the use of the data subject's personal data provided by them, the Data Controller shall notify the data subject about the particular amendment in the appropriate form, such as in e-mail. If the details of the data processing are also changed as a result of amendment of the Data Processing Notice, the Data Controller shall ask for the data subject's consent separately. For matters not regulated under this Data Processing Notice, the provisions of the GDPR, and – where allowed by the GDPR – the provisions of the Information Act shall be applied.
